

CHRIST & CULTURE

The Ezra Institute for Contemporary Christianity is pleased to present How Then Shall We Answer 2011 –

RECLAIMING A BIBLICAL VISION OF CULTURE

City Centre Baptist Church – Mississauga, ON Saturday, November 12, 2011

Civilizations rise and fall as their cultures fail. The progressive capture of the West by humanism and the encroachment of Islam are producing radical decay and collapse all around us; from economic meltdown to rioting and anarchy in our city streets. Yet, the Lord Jesus Christ likens himself to a farmer planting and cultivating his seed of the Kingdom of God throughout the world. The Gospel of the Kingdom concerns our culture, which is quite essentially our state of being. We are either redeemed men and women in Jesus Christ, or we are lost in the kingdom of darkness. The Christian state of being, like the mustard seed, grows and creates a type of civilization, as it has done wherever it has been in history: The City of God. We are God's new humanity in Jesus Christ and wherever God's people are, the culture of Christ can flourish all around them. How then shall we answer the rage of our age? By reclaiming a biblical vision of culture.

Joining us as speakers this year are: Career diplomat and Christian statesman Dennis Ignatius; American Legal expert and author Jeffery Ventrella; and Joe Boot, Senior Pastor of Westminster Chapel in Toronto and Founder of the Ezra Institute. They will cover topics ranging from the precise nature and character of culture, to encouraging examples of Christ's overwhelming power in culture, to the importance of the Gospel in Western legal culture.
